Dear Families,

With the changing weather please remember to send your child to school with proper clothing. Students should come to school prepared to do outside activities even in light rain or snow. Each student should have a change of clothing to be kept at school.

Preschool News:
Mrs. Lilly’s and Mrs. Baron’s preschool classes had a special guest reader today. The book that was read to them is Amazing Autumn. The United Way of Franklin County sponsors the Read. Learn. Succeed. Program. Each month the guest reader will go into the two classrooms and read the selected book. Each classroom and each student will be given a copy of the books to add to your own personal library. Thanks to guest reader, Tina Annear, and the United Way of Franklin County.

Special Education News: Spending time with your student(s) doing school type activities at home is a great way for your child to understand that as a parent you value school and want to support them. One routine you could try is setting aside daily (or alternating days) a time for your child to read to you or for you to read to your. This can be when dinner is cooking, right before bedtime, or after dinner. Even 10 minutes spent this way is of value.

Weekly newsletter survey: Thanks for the families that have returned their paperwork regarding how you would wish to receive your weekly newsletter. The school has reduced it’s paper usage for newsletters by sending only ONE copy of the newsletters to families. This reduced the paper count from 140 to 100 copies. Parents have returned responses that they prefer the newsletters emailed to them. This reduces our paper count by another 19 families. Thanks for your responses. Next week the newsletters will be sent via email for those families requesting it.
