

Kayla Zambanini graduated in 2005 from Conemaugh Township Area High School/Middle School. After graduating, she attended Liberty University where she earned her degree in athletic training. While in college, Kayla aided Division One athletes. During that time, her love for athletic training and her faith grew.

After her graduation from college, she accepted a job at Conemaugh Township in 2010 as the new athletic trainer. In 2015, Kayla received the opportunity to begin working for the Fellowship of Christian Athletes as a Somerset County area representative. In Kayla's seven years of being at Township, she has led mission trips to Nassau, Bahamas every year. She has taken many CT students to serve the Haitian refugees in Nassau. Kayla organizes this trip to expose teenagers to different cultures and ways of life with the intentions of expanding their spiritual lives, as well as to serve the struggling Haitian families. "I do it to teach the teenagers I take there about different cultures and to serve the Haitian refugee families I've grown so close with over the years."

Kayla's responsibilities as an athletic trainer include conducting initial assessments of an athlete's injury or illness. She then treats the athlete with emergency and continued care.

Today, Kayla resides in Hollsopple, where she remains close to her family.

In high school, her favorite teacher was Mrs. Marya Pepoy. Kayla said, "I admired the way she cared about students and athletics deeply." Kayla also admired her father, Mr. Samuel Zambanini.
