

The White Mountain DUI Task Force

The White Mountain DUI Task Force is a multi-agency task force based in Navajo and Apache County; this DUI Task Force is one of sixteen similar task forces deployed throughout the state.

Our Goal

The goal of the DUI Task force is to deter impaired driving by proactive enforcement in Apache County. This goal is accomplished by participating in saturation patrols (wolf packs) and DUI checkpoints (road blocks). Many of the activities are planned during holiday weekends and special events.

Funding

These activities are funded through grant funds through the Arizona Governor's Office of Highway Safety (AZGOHS). AZGOHS funds training opportunities throughout the state for law enforcement officers. These trainings are designed to better DUI detection and prosecutions. These trainings include Standardized Field Sobriety Testing to include Horizontal Gaze Nystagmus (HGN), Drug Recognition Expert Training (DRE), and the Law Enforcement Phlebotomy Program.

Education

AZGOHS also conducts public services campaigns designed at educating the public about the dangers and penalties for impaired driving.
