Today was a very sad day. I went into my classroom to pack up all the kiddos things to be picked up next week. Thinking about how I won't be able to hug them when they leave my classroom for the year is just heartbreaking. I'm hanging on to the idea that I may get to see (in person) some of my families when they come pick up their child's things. I am only allowed to be there for an hour, so I'm sure I won't see all of them. Our principal, who is just amazing, made us all goodie bags, gave us donuts and pizza for lunch for Teacher Appreciation today. That was definitely a pick-me-up. She is so sweet! Thank you Mrs. Krenkel!
